

To Whom it May Concern -

As a regular listener of K-Love radio via FM translator in Phoenix, Arizona (FM 105.5, 89.1, and 100.9), I am concerned over the news that you are considering giving priority service to LPFM stations, which could effectively put stations like K-Love out of business. This is disconcerting, as I have found no other station in our local market that provides the same family-friendly programming and contemporary Christian music that not only I enjoy, but my kids mandate each time we get in the car. The station regularly broadcasts free public service announcements and partners with various ministries, such as Food for the Hungry and Phoenix Rescue Mission. These fine organizations bring hope to those who are struggling both here and around the world. Please do not force translator-based stations like K-Love out of business. They are providing essential services to our communities around the country.

Sincerely,

Jim McCulley
